Re: 2022 NISS Calls Redesign

In a continued effort to simplify the reporting process, we are happy to announce we have redesigned the 2022 NISS Calls to consolidate and simplify the instructions for ease of use. These improvements were developed with extensive input from the NISS Technical Advisory Committee, and the highlights are as follows:

- The Call instructions contain the same information, but are now presented in a more organized, clear, and concise manner.
- The NISS website now has a new column on the 2022 Calls page with quick links to access record layouts for each Call.
- Blank pages have been removed and the Calls are less than half the length than before, providing for easier navigation.
- Bookmarks have been added to the Call PDFs.

We hope companies will find these enhancements helpful as we continue to work to make the statistical reporting process as simple as it can be.

Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions or need any additional information.

Very truly yours,
